

A Brief History of the Western District of Michigan

Congress created the District Court of Michigan with the Act of July 1, 1836.¹ At the time, Michigan was just one judicial district, and the court was to hold two sessions at the seat of the government, which was then in Detroit. The Act of February 24, 1863,² divided Michigan into two districts, with Grand Rapids designated as the judicial center of the Western District and Detroit as the center for the Eastern District. In 1878, the Western District of Michigan was divided into two divisions, Southern and Northern; Grand Rapids and Marquette were designated as the respective court seats.³ The term of court for the Southern Division of the Western District was held at Grand Rapids until 1954, when court was authorized to be held in Kalamazoo and Mason.⁴ It was not until 1961 that a session of court was authorized to be held in the state capital, Lansing,⁵ at which time the term in Mason was eliminated.
